She landed her first presenting job in 2015 for Channel 4's longest running daytime programme, 'A Place in the Sun' and from there went from strength to strength. Alongside this, Scarlett presented her own prime time travel show, also on Channel 4 entitled, 'Holiday Secrets... is Last Minute Best?' She has reported for BBC One's 'Points of View' and 'The One Show', co-hosted on 'The Jeremy Vine Show', fronted entertainment hits on 'Good Morning Britain' and 'Lorraine', featured on numerous celebrity led Channel 5 programmes, hosted various live events and has been a radio host for Heart FM.

In July 2020, she landed her own, brand new, prime time property show for HGVT UK titled, 'My Dream Derelict Home in the Sun' and in the same year fronted Channel 4's Black to Front episode of 'Love it or List it' with her brother Stuart. Along with him and property guru George Clarke, Scarlett was part of a brand new, competitive property format entitled, 'Flipping Fast' also for Channel 4, a station that has quickly become home.

In 2022, Scarlette was hand-picked to take part in 'I'm a Celebrity, Get Me Out of Here' where she won over the heart of the nation, went on to make history by being the first female celebrity to take part in Soccer Aid for UNICEF 2023 and along with her brother Stuart, has taken the UK TV property world by storm. Together they have developed and fronted their own shows for Channel 4; 'Worst House on the Street' and 'Can't Sell Must Sell'; have their own property podcast and are invited regularly to talk at property events, shows and exhibitions.

Thanks to all of this and more, Scarlett is fast becoming one of the most trusted property experts in television, as well as a staple name in entertainment in the UK and is not only keen to continue working in front of camera, but has also set up a production company to develop ideas behind it.
